Public Speaking

Course Description
This course is an introduction to principles of public speaking with application of speaking skills.

Prerequisite or Co requisite: ENG 101

3.0 Cr (3 lect/pres, 0 lab, 0 other)

Course Focus
Are you paralyzed by fear at the thought of getting up in front of people and speaking? Or, do you just want to polish your speaking skills? This class is designed for the beginning speaker to help you manage your anxiety and help you learn to organize your thoughts logically and present them orally to a class. It is proven that people who have this speaking ability are promoted in the marketplace more often than those that do not possess this skill.

SPC 205 Core Curriculum Competencies
All courses approved for the general education core curriculum help students develop communication skills and/or critical thinking.

This course develops communication skills through instruction in designing and delivering at least four presentations intended to inform or persuade listeners. These speeches are to be structured with a discernible Introduction, Body, and Conclusion that reflect a thesis or central idea, and developed with supporting material to be obtained and incorporated through relevant research.

This course develops critical thinking skills for both speakers and listeners since speakers are expected to employ evidence they have located that is consistent with the thesis and that is influential to listeners, while listeners must determine the merit of such information while acting as effective consumers of rhetorical discourse. A standardized final examination also tests critical thinking ability.

GRADING METHODOLOGY
The final grade must be 70 or more (a grade “C” or better) in order to pass the course and progress to the next course. Students absent from an examination or presentation will receive a “0” grade for the examination unless other arrangements are made with the individual instructor prior to the examination or presentation day or on the examination or presentation day before the test/presentation is scheduled to be given.

The student is responsible for notifying the instructor for the reason of the absence. It is also the responsibility of the student to contact the appropriate instructor to arrange to make up the examination. Arrangements may be completed by telephone.

If the instructor is not available, a message should be left on the instructor’s voice mail AND with another member of the faculty or administrative assistant. The make-up exam will be scheduled and the instructor will decide the method of examination. Messages sent by other students are unacceptable.
